

Knot, a collection of stately pendent lights, contrasts two dissimilar materials, two dissimilar notions: gentle curves in clear handblown glass against the austerity of coarse rope. The resulting design is striking, forthright, and dignified at the same time.

Full-bodied globes of varying shapes and sizes are penetrated by robust rope ending in the core design element of the collection – the knot – which seemingly pulls the bottom of the glass inward for a bemusing plastic effect. The LED light source is mounted beneath an elegant hood made of stamped metal and protected from below by a handblown triplex opal diffuser. Another metal component serves to cap the end of the rope. The collection comprises lights of four different shapes in two sizes with a variety of colour options. There's also a romantic table light, which is now available in a version for exterior use as well. Now the metal components are available in an optional white powder finish.
